

In 1962, he became the announcer for the just-formed New York Mets, where he remained for 17 years. Working with Ralph Kiner and Bob Murphy, he broadcast the Miracle Mets' World Series season of 1969.

Later he became the voice of the San Francisco Giants. He also broadcast Notre Dame football during his distinguished career, along with many of our Nation's great sporting events, including the Masters Golf Tournament and the Cotton Bowl.

But, as distinguished as Lindsey Nelson's career was at the national level, he was first and foremost a son of Tennessee. He graduated from the University of Tennessee in 1941. While in UT he tutored English to football players, and planned to go into sports writing.

However, the Second World War intervened, and Mr. Nelson joined the Army and saw battle duty in Italy, Germany, and France. He won seven battle campaign stars and a Bronze Star.

After the war he did the play-by-play for the University of Tennessee football team. In 1949 he founded the Vol Network, and became the university's sports information director in 1951. He also did announcing for the school's basketball games and the Knoxville Smokies baseball team.

The university's baseball stadium, one of the finest in the Nation, was named after Lindsey Nelson.

For a number of years Mr. Nelson wrote a column for The Knoxville News-Sentinel.

Lindsey Nelson loved Tennessee. He loved its State university in Knoxville. Wherever he served in his long and productive life, he was never far from his beloved State and school.

Tennessee lost one of its most favored and distinguished sons with the passing of Lindsey Nelson. As his old friend Ben Byrd, former sports editor of The Knoxville Journal, said on hearing of Mr. Nelson's death: "A lot of people knew him, and without exception they all loved him. He was just something special."

I join all of Lindsey Nelson's many friends in Tennessee and around the world in mourning his passing.●

RETIREMENT OF RICHARD A. GIESSER, CHAIRMAN OF THE MASSACHUSETTS PORT AUTHORITY

● Mr. KERRY. Mr. President, I rise to pay tribute to Richard A. Giesser as he leaves office after 10 years as chairman of the Massachusetts Port Authority.

Mr. President, I have known Dick Giesser as a friend and adviser for many years. He is one of those all-too-rare individuals who balanced a successful career in business with a deep commitment to public service. I have no doubt that his service to the public will continue long beyond his tenure at the Massachusetts Port Authority.

Dick Giesser will be remembered, not only as the longest serving chairman of the port authority, but as a chairman who worked tirelessly to build MassPort's strength while providing safe and efficient service to the public. Under his leadership MassPort put the highest premium on safety, building inclined runway safety ramps at Logan International Airport and developing state-of-the-art fire and rescue facilities.

Mr. Giesser was a key architect of the Logan Airport modernization plan, now known as Logan 2000, which will enable Logan Airport to meet the ever-increasing demands of the regional integration into the global economy.

In the meantime, Dick Giesser kept faith with communities surrounding Logan Airport, by pioneering noise rules that alleviate the impact of air traffic over East Boston and Winthrop. He was instrumental as well in providing MassPort's support to the adjoining city of Chelsea so that Chelsea could climb back from bankruptcy and regain its fiscal stability.

Under Dick Giesser's guidance in MassPort became an important promoter of New England companies in international trade. During his tenure the authority hosted the successful Sail Boston exhibition, which showcased Boston Harbor and Massachusetts to the world, and with his leadership MassPort launched a broad effort to restore marine-related industries to the harbor.

Dick Giesser is proud that the Massachusetts Port Authority achieved a AA bond rating for the first time during his tenure. I am sure he is even prouder that he leaves MassPort a stronger agency, capable of meeting the demands of the 21st century without turning its back on its neighbors.

Mr. President, once again, I salute Richard Giesser for his service to MassPort, to Massachusetts, and to New England. He exemplifies the importance of public service, but beyond that, he is a friend, and I join with my colleagues and the people of Massachusetts and New England in wishing him well.●

TRIBUTE TO THEO POZZY

● Mr. COHEN. Mr. President, I rise today to pay tribute to Theo J. Pozzy, a close friend of mine who passed away on May 29 at the age of 94. Theo was a longtime community volunteer in my hometown of Bangor and was revered by everyone in the community.

In 1919, while still a teenager, Theo came to the United States from France. Even toward the end of his life, his voice contained the telltale sign of a French accent. His love for his adopted country, however, could not have been stronger.

Theo served admirably in World War II under the command of Gen. Douglas MacArthur. After the war, he helped carry out the Marshall plan in Europe, working closely with Ambassador Averill Harriman. On the recommendation of French President Charles DeGaulle, Theo was awarded the French Medal of the Legion of Honor for his work abroad.

After returning from Europe, Theo dedicated much of his life to helping others through volunteer work. Toward the end of his life, he was very active with programs that helped individuals cope with drug and alcohol addictions, and he was the treasurer of the Eastern Regional Council on Alcohol and Drug Abuse in Bangor.

Some may ask what kept Theo going all these years. After all, many people view their golden years as a time to relax, and they eagerly look forward to enjoying themselves after a lifetime of working for and rewarding others.

I truly think that Theo Pozzy knew nothing other than giving of himself. While most people slow down in retirement, Theo sped up. While many people are anxious to celebrate themselves, Theo celebrated others. While some ask for something in return for their charity, Theo was much more comfortable as a benefactor than a beneficiary. These are some of the things that made him great.

Mr. President, I and many others lost a very close friend last month. Theo Pozzy will truly be missed.●

TRIBUTE TO CAPT. CAROLYN V. PREVATTE, U.S. NAVY

● Mr. GLENN. Mr. President, I rise to recognize the dedication, public service, and patriotism of Capt. Carolyn V. Prevatte, U.S. Navy. She has retired from active duty after more than 23 years of faithful service to our Nation. Captain Prevatte's contribution in formulating and implementing personnel policy helped to sustain the highest quality naval force we have had in the history of our armed services. Her strong commitment to excellence will have a lasting effect on the vitality of our modern warfighters. Her outstanding service commands the admiration and respect of her military colleagues and the Members of Congress.

Captain Prevatte is a native of the great State of Tennessee, but it can truly be said that she has spent her entire life in the service of our country since she is the daughter of a retired Army master sergeant. Commissioned in August 1971 at the Women Officers School, Newport, RI, Captain Prevatte served her first tour in Training Squadron 28, Naval Air Station, Corpus Christi, TX. Her department head tour followed at Naval Station, Annapolis, MD. While in Annapolis, she served as an assistant company officer on plebe detail for the U.S. Naval Academy class of 1980, the first to include women. In 1977, she commenced duty as Senior Instructor, Naval Reserve Officer Training Corps Unit, at the Texas A&M University. From there, she served as Operations Officer, Office of Legislative Affairs and as a Joint Manpower Planner, organization of the Joint Chiefs of Staff in Washington, DC. While on the joint staff, she was assigned additional duty as a military social aide at the White House. Captain Prevatte was Executive Officer of Navy Recruiting District, Houston, TX, from April 1984 to December 1985.

In January 1986, Captain Prevatte returned to Washington, DC for assignment as Head, Fleet Command Support Branch, Naval Military Personnel Command [NMPC]. In April 1987, she became the Deputy Director, Restricted Line/Staff Corps Officer Distribution and Special Placement Division, NMPC, and in February 1989, she became Administrative Assistant/Aide to the Commander, NMPC. Captain Prevatte served as Commanding Officer, Personnel Support Activity, Pensacola, FL, from December 1989 through August 1991. She reported to the Bureau of Naval Personnel in September 1991, where she served as Director, Allocation Division (Pers-45) prior to her assignment to the staff of the Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Manpower and Reserve Affairs) as Executive Director, Standing Committee on Military and Civilian Women in the Department of the Navy in April 1993. Additionally, in June 1993, she assumed duties as Staff Director (Manpower) in the Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Manpower).

In March 1994, Captain Prevatte was selected to serve as Executive Assistant and Naval Aide to the Assistant Secretary of the Navy (Manpower and Reserve Affairs). She transferred to the Office of the Secretary of Defense in October 1994, where she served as Military Assistant to the Assistant Secretary of Defense (Force Management Policy) until her retirement.

A proven Navy subspecialist in Manpower, Personnel and Training Analysis, Captain Prevatte holds a bachelor of science degree from Middle Tennessee State University and a master of science degree from Texas A&M University. She was named an Outstanding Young Woman of the Year in 1982. Her military awards include the Legion of Merit, Defense Meritorious Service Medal, Navy Meritorious Service Medal with three gold stars, Navy Commendation Medal, and Navy Achievement Medal with one gold star.

Our Nation, the U.S. Navy, and her parents, Master Sergeant (Retired) and Mrs. James L. Prevatte, can truly be proud of the captain's many accomplishments. A woman of such extraordinary talent and integrity is rare indeed. While her honorable service will be genuinely missed in the Department of Defense, it gives me great pleasure to recognize Captain Prevatte before my colleagues and wish her all of our best wishes in her well deserved retirement.

HONORING NICHOLAS KALIKOW

• Mr. D'AMATO. Mr. President, I rise today to offer congratulations to a young man from New York City who is being honored this coming weekend in Washington, DC. This fine young man, Nicholas Kalikow, will receive the coveted silver medal award in the annual Scholastic Art and Writing Awards given by the Alliance for Young Artists and Writers. The ceremony will be held at the Corcoran Gallery of Art on Saturday, June 17, 1995.

I have had the privilege of knowing the parents of Nicholas Kalikow, Peter and Mary Kalikow, for many years. Peter is an accomplished businessman, philanthropist, and public servant. Recently, the Governor of New York appointed him to the board of the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey. Mary, in addition to being a caring mother, is deeply involved in the education of the learning disabled, serving on several board's dealing with this critical matter.

I have watched Nicholas grow to his early manhood and have been impressed with his talent and character. In addition to his other fine traits, he is a fine gifted writer, as evidenced by this award.

The Scholastic Art and Writing Awards, administered by the Alliance for Young Artists and Writers, Inc., has recognized young artists and writers for their achievements in the arts since 1923. It is the largest and longest running program of its kind in the Nation. The awards program attracts entries from all 50 States. Some of our country's most important artists and writers, including Truman Capote and Joyce Carol Oates, received their first recognition from this program.

Nicholas will receive the silver medal in the short story category. Many entries were received in this category and I am proud to say the Nicholas' story was selected as a winner.

Mr. President, I want to congratulate Nicholas, his parents, sister Kathryn, his grandmother Juliet, and her husband Steve Levene, all of whom will be present at the awards ceremony. I also want to congratulate the sponsors of this event, many of whom are New York based corporations and foundations, who recognize the achievements of our Nation's youth.●

ALTERNATIVE MEDICINE

• Mr. HARKIN. Mr. President, on March 2, I was honored to participate in a press conference on a report to the National Institutes of Health on Alternative Medicine: Expanding Medical Horizons. The report, which was prepared by an editorial committee chaired by Dr. Brian Berman and Dr. David Larson, represented more than two years of work by more than two hundred practitioners of alternative medicine. It is my sincere hope that the NIH carefully read this document and use some of its recommendations as the basis for a long-term strategic plan for the NIH's Office of Alternative Medicine (OAM).

For my colleagues' review, I am attaching the opening remarks of Dr. James Gordon. Dr. Gordon, a Clinical Professor in the Departments of Psychiatry and Family Medicine at Georgetown Medical School as well as the Chair of the Advisory Council of the Office of Alternative Medicine, presents an excellent overview of various kinds of alternative therapies now being used by America's health consumers along with a cogent justification for the expansion of NIH-sponsored investigations into those therapies. I have also included the short introductory remarks I made at the March 2 press conference. I ask that these remarks be printed in the RECORD.

The remarks follow:

ALTERNATIVE MEDICINE: A REPORT TO THE NATIONAL INSTITUTES OF HEALTH

[Statement by James S. Gordon, M.D.]

Welcome to the press conference on the Report to the National Institutes of Health on Alternative Medicine. This is a very happy and fulfilling occasion for us. For the last two and a half years the efforts and good will of more than two hundred people have gone into creating this Report.

I'm James S. Gordon, M.D.—a psychiatrist who uses a number of alternative therapeutic approaches in his medical practice. I'm a Clinical Professor in the Departments of Psychiatry and Family Medicine at Georgetown Medical School; Director of the Center for Mind-Body Medicine here in Washington; and Co-Chair of the section on Mind-Body Interventions of this report. I'm going to be the moderator for today as we discuss this Report and its origins, and present it to the National Institutes of Health.

I'll begin with an overview of the field and set the context for the development of this Report. I'll then introduce Senator Tom Harkin. Afterwards Brian Berman, M.D. and David Larson, M.D.—the Chair and Co-Chair of the Editorial Board of this Report—will speak briefly on the contents of this Report. Drs. Berman and Larson will present the Report to Alan Trachtenberg, M.D., the Acting Director of the Office of Alternative Medicine. Then, I'll introduce the Editorial Board and several other contributing writers, and we'll be available to discuss the Report and answer your questions on it.

I'd like to begin by giving you some background on the Report and putting it in the context of the field of alternative medicine. Let's start with the name "alternative medicine." Alternative comes from the word "other," and, indeed, this is the other medicine or, more accurately, the other medicines—the ones that are not taught in our medical schools or ordinarily practiced in our hospitals or clinics.

This use of this term is of recent origin. Over the last two decades, it is one of several that has been created to apply to new developments in medicine. Others include "humanistic medicine;" "holistic" or "wholistic" medicine; "mind-body medicine;" and "complementary medicine." Holistic medicine refers to an understanding of the whole person in his or her total environment and the wide range of both conventional and alternative treatments that comprise the whole or comprehensive approach. Humanistic medicine emphasizes the interaction between those who come for help and those who offer it. Mind-body medicine suggests the importance of the two-way connection between mind and body and their integrity. Complementary medicine—the term of choice in Europe—implies a mutually enhancing effect between conventional medicine and other approaches.
